BSF has had a dramatic impact on everyone's sense of wellbeing and this is clear in students' attitudes, behaviour and effort. There is a real sense of pride, which is great to see. The fact that our first set of GCSE results in the new school are the best in the school's history has just been the icing on the cake!

From all of this year's BSF awards, one project stood out for a number of reasons. Beaumont Leys opened six weeks ahead of schedule, thanks to the strong relationship developed over many months between the school leadership team, the local authority and the private sector partner, but the real difference - which I am delighted to have seen for myself - is in the attitude, self-esteem and motivation of the pupils after moving into their new school in April.

→ Beaumont Leys Secondary School is a successful 1000 place 11-16 mixed comprehensive school serving the north of Leicester. The new school opened six weeks ahead of schedule in April 2009.

→ Beaumont Leys won Best BSF School and the Grand Prix gong, which is awarded to organisations which show outstanding commitment to the BSF (Building Schools for the Future) programme in the 2009 BSF Awards.

Innovation in ICT

Innovative technology is at the heart of this project, and the school's new Managed Learning Environment, N-able provided Northgate Managed Services, enables teachers and learners to access resources, information and applications anywhere and anytime. Students and staff have access to 350 computers and laptops and 50 interactive whiteboards through the wireless network which reaches out into the playground. Students will even be able to send their work to the school's printers from the comfort of their own home.

“

Building Schools for the Future is all about giving young people a better and a brighter future. The investment in Beaumont Leys - the second BSF school to open in the city - will not only give students and teachers a safe, welcoming and inspiring place to learn, but will also be a real asset to its local community.

Tim Byles,
Chief Executive of Partnerships for Schools, the government agency responsible for delivering the BSF programme

We have always been ambitious for our students and are constantly encouraging them to aim high, our school motto is 'Together We Achieve Success'. We believe we have worked together with all our partners to make this BSF project a real success. We have come far in our old building but in this inspiring new school we will really fly. The school's role as the hub of its community is where I see the greatest opportunity for the new buildings. The facilities are truly exciting and will be uplifting for students, staff and, the broader community.
